

Mentor interaction: Using worked or partially completed examples

In your mentor interaction, you'll have an opportunity to discuss a worked example you have created and used with your mentor.

Over to you!

In preparation for this discussion, consider the following:

- To what extent does the worked example meet the features outlined here earlier in the session?
- How could it be improved?

If your seminar 'Avoiding working memory overload' is scheduled before your mentor interaction, the information you learn from it could be used to support the discussions you have with your mentor. However, if your seminar is scheduled after your mentor interaction, the discussions you have in your mentor interaction can inform the seminar.
